Albert Alsina, Founder and CEO of Mediterrania Capital Partners, wins the Financial Afrik 2020 Award for “Economist of the Year”

Albert Alsina is included on the list of “The 100 people that are transforming Africa” published by the prestigious magazine in December 2020

Malta. Mediterrania Capital Partners, the Private Equity firm focused on growth investments for SMEs and mid-cap companies in North and Sub-Saharan Africa, is pleased to announce that Albert Alsina, Founder and CEO, has won the Financial Afrik 2020 Award for “Economist of the Year” and is included in the list of “The 100 people that are transforming Africa” published by the prestigious magazine on the December edition.

Albert Alsina, Founder and CEO of Mediterrania Capital Partners, said: “Winning Financial Afrik’s Economist of the Year Award and being considered one of the 100 professionals that are transforming Africa is a great honour. Since the launch of Mediterrania Capital Partners’ operations in 2008, when we began investing in African SMEs, I’ve had the chance to witness the strong determination of the African entrepreneurs and their firm desire to improve people’s living conditions across the continent. I look forward to continuing the journey my team and I started more than 12 years ago bringing positive change through economic development.”

Albert Alsina is the Founder and CEO of Mediterrania Capital Partners, a private equity firm with focus in Africa that manages three investment funds with €452 million in Assets Under Management (AUM). Albert Alsina is also the author of “Value Creation in Private Equity”, a book that describes Mediterrania Capital Partners’ 8-step value creation model that helps portfolio companies achieve their next level of growth and development.
