However, we may look at interesting opportunities in Health Care and Education that will contribute to boosting the economies of our focus countries and help alleviate the impact of the current conditions.”

Besides implementing strict and comprehensive actions to ensure the safety and well-being of all employees at the portfolio level, Mediterrania Capital Partners is working hand-in-hand with all its investees to ensure they have the right tools and operational support to overcome the crisis.

In this regard, Mediterrania Capital Partners has set up a working group dedicated to monitoring the working capital needs and cash flow of the portfolio companies. This team actively supports the investee companies on key operational aspects such as supplier account management, supply chain continuity and costs optimisation, as well as HR-related aspects.

“We strongly believe that our portfolio of companies is rightly positioned to overcome the current crisis with growth rates and achieve the long-term development plans,” concluded Albert Alsina.
